Maple Free Floating Snare Drums

Pearl's Free Floating System Snare Drums have remained among the best selling and most widely used snare drums, year after year, for well over a decade. The "Free Floating" concept of removing all hardware from the shell is an extremely effective way of increasing the amount of resonance a snare drum can produce. This simple concept allows the true properties and natural coloration of each shell material to maximize its contribution to the overall sound of the drum. Pearl's Free Floating System also allows you the option to swap shells as easily as changing a batter head.

Our brass and Maple Free Floating System Snare Drums feature our alloy Die-Cast hoops which improve the focus and clarity of these two shell materials. You will find our Die-Cast hoops provide a very dense and loud rim shot and a more intense cross stick sound that is perfect for everything from rock ballads to country. Our 10 oversized springless tension posts provide unequalled tuning integrity. An aircraft quality aluminum alloy bottom edge ring is machined to provide perfect seating with the shell and is precision cut to offer the most stable, sensitive, responsive snare bed imaginable. All of the drums hardware is attached to the edge ring, including the throw-off, allowing the shell to resonate unrestricted. Our SR-010 Snare Throw-off provides super smooth action and both the Snare and Butt units feature our "No Adjust Roller Bed" for precise alignment that is factory preset for optimum response. All of our Free Floating System Snare Drums feature our S-025 high carbon steel extended snares. By extending the ends of snares past the edge of the head, the wires are allowed to lie flat against the head to provide optimum contact. This, combined with a precision machined snare bed specially engineered for extended snares, creates an extremely sensitive and very responsive snare sound.

The benefits supplied by our innovative Free Floating System design are most evident when combined with our 6 ply 100% aged premium Maple shell. Pearl's patented Heat Compression Shell Molding System and patented adhesive formulation consistently produce the finest Maple Shells available today. This exclusive shell manufacturing process, combined with our Free Floating System, produces a snare drum that offers a very warm, well rounded and full bodied tone with lasting resonant sustain. If you are a fan of maple snare drums, you owe it to yourself to hear the difference a free floating shell creates.

Brass and Steel Free Floating Snare Drums

Our Brass Free Floating Snare Drum is an excellent choice for the drummer seeking both power and sensitivity from a single drum. The overall brilliant tonality of brass with its characteristic attack, volume and projection, combined with the excellent resonance inherent to our Free Floating System, makes our Brass Free Floating Snare Drum an extremely versatile choice. Its overwhelming popularity, especially among rock drummers, has made this drum one of the best selling snare drums we have ever offered. Our Steel Shell Free Floating System Piccolo offers the excellent attack, natural tone, and superb projection that characterize most standard steel shell snare drums, and adds the lasting resonance, sustain and outstanding clarity inherent with our Free Floating System design. Our 1.6mm steel counter hoops are a perfect match to complement the native voicing of our steel shell and its unique black exterior finish offers a real departure from most steel shell drums.
